Ed Schilling

A Conversation with Ed Schilling

When talking with Ed Schilling, one gets the feeling that he's been around the game of basketball forever. But then, one gets the feeling that he has just found the love of his life. That's the kind of love for the game Ed Schilling wants to share with everyone he meets. He's a student of the game but yet a master.

It all started for him as his father, Ed Sr., walked the sidelines as a coach. He studied the art of the game and grew beyond his years in his appreciation. That's where he also learned his love for the basics of the game, believing that will "ultimately create victories."

He also talks about two others, his high school coach Jim Rosenstihl and former UMass and New Jersey head coach John Calipari. Both helped mold Schilling into the successful coach he has become today.

These people not only helped him shape his philosophies of basketball but also life.

He loves to talk about this. To him, his players come first and foremost. Helping his players become better people, helping them learn to give of their skills and talents—to reach their potential—is what coaching is all about. Success off the court leads to success on the court.

How does he think anyone can attain success? Through discipline, what else.

"I believe that discipline separates the champions from the rest of the pack," Schilling believes. "It means always being on the top of your game, going to class, taking notes, asking questions. Discipline makes a person capable of success."

This leads to a discussion on the importance of the process of success.

"Being concerned with the actual product becomes less important when you deal with the process of success—that's where you really get involved," Schilling continues.

"Anyone can get lucky and win once but the trick is the prolonged process of trying your best in each activity of each day."

Going into the topic of recruiting creates a whole new glimmer in Schilling's eye. As a former high school star, he knows how it feels to be on both ends of the recruiting battle. He says the first thing he looks for are student-athletes that fit the mold he has established for Wright State. He looks for individuals that fit WSU's needs athletically, academically, and attitudinally.

That means being picky and focusing on individuals who can bring those traits to the program and doing it aggressively with great enthusiasm and passion.

And that means doing the work in the classroom as well as on the court. As great as the lure of a Top 20 basketball program has been for others, Schilling believes that is not the entire process.

"We have a six-hour mandatory study table, a rigid class attendance policy (which means all except while on a road trip)," Schilling said. "To help the student-athletes, we have tutors available for all classes and a weekly academic meeting with coaches and other staff members. That's just another way to show how important the players' academics are to us and to them."

Recruits should want to choose Wright State for many of the same reasons Ed Schilling first considered WSU.

First there was the commitment of the University to be a Top 20 program and the urgent need to do it the right way.

Second, Schilling points to the 10,000-plus seat Nutter Center with new locker rooms, a new weight room, 18 luxury boxes and a fan base that leads the league every year.

Third, like Schilling himself, Wright State brings a sense of youth and enthusiasm. Being less than 40 years old, many faculty and staff members are young and progressive and are not afraid to take some chances and become trailblazers.

Fourth, the media attention has been second to none in many ways. In a city of a million people with no big-time professional sports teams, the Raiders receive the ultimate in print and television exposure. If that's not enough, look at the cities in the MCC like Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Green Bay, and Indianapolis and you see many of the country's top media markets.

Lastly, Schilling talked about what the recruits can expect after they sign and when they arrive on campus. This he sees as the start of the process for success. His players become like his family, sharing in many of the same activities as his wife, Shawn, and daughter, Christiana.

"My family enjoys the close relationships we have developed over the years with several different players," Schilling adds. "All my players know my home is always open to them, and we are thankful they take advantage of our open invitation."

"My players are really like family, even when they are long finished playing basketball."

A tireless clinician and teacher, Ed Schilling participated in a camp during a summer trip to Venice, Italy.

Ed Schilling Head Coach Third Season

If a career of basketball knowledge can be packed into 30-plus years, that is exactly what Wright State University head coach Ed Schilling has tried to do.

After a successful high school and college career and many camps as a participant and coach, Schilling started his head coaching career on one of the toughest battlefields in the nation.

He started as a high school coach in Indiana. That's where he learned the art of coaching, making the right play, calling the timeouts, and working the officials.

He was the youngest high school head coach in the nation when he took over at Western Boone in Thorntown, Indiana, and three years later he took over the head coaching job at Logansport. At Logansport, he led his team to 47 wins and two sectional championships. Not an easy thing to do when you consider Logansport played in the famous "Conference of Champions" in a 6,000-seat arena. That's where he honed his skills in coaching and communications as he had his own television show and two radio shows.

During this time, he continued to work camps, always on the look out for some new knowledge or some other head coach who wanted to talk basketball.

For 11 years, he made a name for himself as a head coach and lecturer at the famed Five-Star Basketball Camps in Pittsburgh—the undisputed hot-bed for the best college talent in the country. That's where he caught the eye of someone Schilling has come to know as a mentor and a friend—John Calipari.

Calipari was the head coach at UMass and offered Schilling an assistant coaching position. That was a magical year and taught Schilling never to settle for anything but the best.

The Minutemen went 35-3 that year and advanced to the coveted Final Four. The next season, Calipari asked Schilling to join his staff as an assistant with the New Jersey Nets.

Then after a year in the NBA, Schilling brought his successful style and experience to Wright State. Under his direction, he has been able to steer the program in the right direction of hard work and dedication and not settling for mediocrity.

"I have prepared my whole life for this type of opportunity," Schilling said. "Wright State is not only a basketball program headed in the right direction but also an entire university of people dedicated to students and student-athletes. Success is measured by trying your best in every activity, regardless of the apparent result."

Wright State's facilities are among the best in the nation—from the 10,000-plus seat Nutter Center to the state-of-the-art team room to a brand new weight room.

Facilities

WVSU

The Nutter Center

There's no place like home. And there's no place quite like the Nutter Center, home to the Wright State Raiders.

The Ervin J. Nutter Center is home to Wright State's men's and women's basketball and women's volleyball teams. But it's also the site of four basketball courts, a recreational running track, a multi-purpose room, more than 60,000 square feet of exhibit space and classrooms.

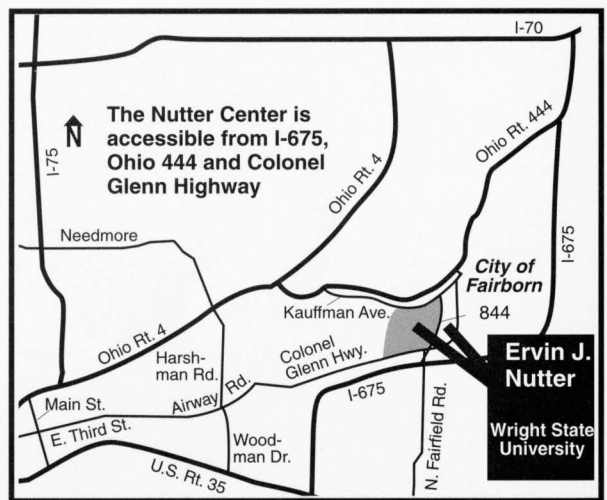

Just 10 years old, the Nutter Center is already in the midst of a facelift. Extensive remodeling is underway on a new men's basketball team room, upgraded locker room, coaches' locker room and other improvements. And basketball games aren't the only times the Nutter Center rocks. The arena is one of the region's major entertainment locations. New Edition, The Who, Janet Jackson, Vince Gill, Stone Temple Pilots, Whitney Houston, Reba McIntire, Brooks & Dunn, Kiss, Guns 'N' Roses, Neil Diamond, Phish, John Mellencamp, Gloria Estefan, and Boyz II Men, even Garth Brooks and Frank Sinatra are among the hundreds of entertainers who have performed on stage here.

And that doesn't even include Stars on Ice, the tour of Olympic Gymnasts, Ringling Brothers/Barnum & Bailey Circus, Lord of the Dance, Ice Capades, the Moscow Circus or the Dayton Bombers professional hockey team. There's almost always something happening at the Nutter Center—there's an event booked, on average, 280 days a year.

All in all, the Nutter Center has consistently ranked among the top 10 grossing venues in the country since its opening in 1990. In 1996, the arena ranked third in the world in ticket sales for arenas its size.

No wonder the center has averaged nearly one million visitors a year since it opened.

The Mills Players Complex

In 1997, Bob and Marcy Mills dedicated a new area for players and coaches to meet, talk and relax. This is just another result of Ed Schilling's philosophy of putting his players first.

The team room includes a study area, leather couches, a stereo and a large screen TV. This room is used for study periods, team meetings or just a place for players to go before games.

Beside storage space, the area also features a new locker room and shower room, including a new carpet that holds the Raider logo, wooden lockers with each players' picture and brass engraved name plates over their own space and a shower room.

*The Raider Locker Room—
Part of the Mills Players Complex*

Coaches' locker room is located across the hall as a place for the coaches to meet and dress for the games or practice. The Mills also made sure the women's team were included with a refurbishing of the women's locker room and new carpeting in the press room located between both locker rooms.

New Weight Room

Matt Bekkedal was hired last January as WSU's first Strength Coach and work began immediately to construct a new weight room dedicated for the student-athletes only.

Located on the second floor of the Nutter Center, the new room, opened last April, includes a variety of free weights as well as Nebula brand machines. Also many bench stations, squat racks, jump enhancement machines and combo pulley systems highlight the room along with a TV/VCR which allows student-athletes to watch game tape while working out.

Bekkedal closely oversees the weight training of over 225 student-athletes and works with the coaching staffs to set up plans to help each individual.

Midnight Madness

Midnight Madness is much more than a saying around Wright State and it's just not in October—it lasts the whole season long. It starts, well it never really ends, at the first practice when thousands of Raider fans are tired of talking about the upcoming season and can finally see for themselves the players who wear the green and gold. The tradition of WSU's Midnight Madness has flourished under head coach Ed Schilling as he unveils his new squad each year in the main arena of the Nutter Center.

"I believe that the players are the backbone of any program. A player that comes to Wright State becomes part of my family and is always a Raider."

The Raiders are well positioned for superb media coverage, from four national network affiliates to many daily newspapers and a host of radio stations in the Dayton market alone. Players can look forward to ample opportunities to get the exposure they deserve.

EXPOSURE

WRIGHT STATE

Media Coverage

The Best in Media Coverage

Wright State University athletics enjoys the best in all types of media coverage: from three daily newspapers on a day-to-day basis, to each of the four major television networks, and a multitude of radio stations.

This year Raider fans and players can look forward to every home game being televised locally while five to six road games are still being planned out for television. Time Warner, Channel 30, will televise each home game on a taped delay basis the same night of the game at 10 p.m. Fans and players can be at the game and still be able to watch the game that same night while the adrenaline is still flowing.

The upcoming season will be the second for the Raider Radio Network, consisting of WONE 980 AM in Dayton and WIZE 1340 AM in Springfield. In addition, people from around the world can tune in via the internet at www.wone.com. Also in the works is a video feed of the games live through the Wright State Web site at www.wright.edu/athletics. Chris Collins and Jon Ramey provide all of the action.

The Fairborn Daily Herald, the Dayton Daily News, and the Beavercreek News Current all cover the Raiders on a daily basis with game stories and feature articles. Other papers such as the Xenia Daily Gazette, the Springfield News-Sun, and the Troy Daily News cover the Raiders regularly as well.

The city of Dayton can boast all four major networks—WKEF (NBC), WDTN (ABC), WHIO (CBS) and WRGT (FOX). All follow the Raiders closely at home and on the road.

Besides these outlets, student-run media organizations, WWSU 106.9 FM and WSU's weekly newspaper, The Guardian, provide the latest information on all sports from a student's prospective.

The city of Dayton is in a unique situation. Besides Dayton's long history of fine media, with in a two hour drive one can get to three other major media markets—Cincinnati, Columbus and Indianapolis.

Ed Schilling Radio Show

For the third straight season, Ed Schilling and Chris Collins will host the "Ed Schilling Show" live 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. on WONE, 980 AM, and WIZE, 1430 AM, every Wednesday during November and December, switching to Tuesdays for January and February. The popular call-in show originates from Don Pablo's Restaurant near the Wright State University campus.

Coach's Corner

Ed Schilling also hosts "Coaches Corner" which appears each Friday night at 10:30 p.m. on WRGT-TV, FOX 45, and again on WKEF-TV, NBC 22, at 11:30 p.m. This show features the Raider players and coaching staff as well as the entire athletic program.

Raiders in the Pros

Vitaly Potapenko

Bill Edwards

Thad Burton

More and more former Raiders are showing up on rosters at every level of professional sports. The most known has been Vitaly Potapenko. The 6-10 forward was picked 12th overall in the 1996 NBA draft by the Cleveland Cavaliers, and subsequently has moved on to play with the Boston Celtics.

Head coach Ed Schilling brings his own NBA experience to Wright State University as he spent a season as an assistant coach with the New Jersey Nets under the guidance of John Calipari.

Also, currently playing in Europe, Bill Edwards has been called the best American player in the always tough Italian League. He has represented the United States in the 1998 World Championship Games in Greece and helped them to a Bronze Medal finish. Edwards has also has spent time with the Cavs and the 76ers.

Thad Burton from the 1997-98 Raiders signed to play in France. Also playing across the ocean are Mike Nahar (Greece) and Delme Herriman (Holland), from WSU's NCAA team in 1993. Inus Norville recently signed to play in France.

Inus Norville

Delme Herriman

After an All-American career at UCLA, Assistant Coach Rod Foster had a stellar career in the NBA until a career-ending injury.

Wright State University offers the type of hands-on education that everyone is looking for from a university. Being a relatively young institution, Wright State brings an innovative and progressive approach to its many activities and partnerships in the community.

The University

WSU

Academics

Academic Support Services

The academic advisor should have primary advising and counseling responsibilities for approximately 260 athletes who are completing college requirements. The advisor's role is to help athletes see themselves in positive ways. The advisor's goal is to free students, not control them. (People who are free can find their own best ways to function.) An advisor should be a facilitator, i.e. the advisor should help build the self-image of student-athletes by having tolerance for lack of understanding on the part of the student. The athletic advisor must be able to help student-athletes turn their futures and frustrations into positive gains and build upon past successes.

Advising

- knowledge of courses required
- knowledge of courses and instructors
- follow degree programs
- communicate with college advisors or faculty
- respect the interests and wishes of the student

Career Planning

- talk with students about choice of major
- discuss vocational aspirations
- refer students to university resources and services
- encourage planning and forethought

Academic Reporting

The academic advisor does annual reporting on the academic progress of student-athletes. Reports are given to coaches and athletic director. The advisor will also initiate structured interviews with students on a regular basis, the primary purposes of which should be to determine how they are progressing.

Faculty/Staff Relations

The advisor will work with faculty and staff of the university to promote a positive working relationship between the athletic and academic community. Most of all, the advisor will assure faculty of the Athletic Department's interest in meeting educational objectives. The advisor will try to know as many faculty as possible, understand their needs and point of view, and get as much information as possible.

The University

Nestled just northeast of Dayton, Ohio, Wright State University is continuing the region's heritage of innovation, research, and service, not to mention improving the quality of life for the entire Miami Valley. And the quality of life for Wright State students just gets better every year.

First of all, there's an academic major to fit every student's desire. The 16,000 students at Wright State can pursue more than 100 undergraduate and 40 graduate and professional degrees through six colleges and three schools. There are doctoral programs in biomedical sciences, computer science and engineering, psychology, and engineering, an interdisciplinary program that involves the Departments of Electrical, Biomedical/Human Factors, and Mechanical/Materials Engineering. Professional doctoral degrees are available in medicine and psychology.

Looking for one of only two aerospace medicine programs in the country? You'll find it at Wright State. Looking for small, focused classes? You'll find them here, too. Wright State's 700 faculty and 1,300 staff members are dedicated to putting students and their needs first. You'll find a strong emphasis on hands-on learning outside the classroom. And you'll find a rich, and diverse, campus life.

That's because Wright State is a campus filled with energy. There are more than 150 student clubs and organizations—from fraternities and sororities to performing arts clubs; from the student-run WWSU radio station and the campus newspaper to student government.

The school's campus recreation program attracts more than 9,000 students every year to more than 30 sports and recreational activities. And the university attracts internationally acclaimed musicians and performers every year through its Artist Series program. So, the sky truly is the limit at Wright State. And what could be more appropriate for a university named for the men who first taught the world to fly?

Did You Know?

- The university libraries house the world's most extensive collection of Wright brothers photographs and papers.
- For the past five years, 100 percent of WSU's education graduates have passed the professional education test of the national teacher's exam.
- Eighty percent of Wright State's faculty members hold the most advanced degree possible in their fields.
- WSU's School of Medicine ranks in the top five percent of 126 medical schools in the percentage of graduates who practice primary care. It also ranks in the top 10 percent nationally in the number of minority and female graduates.
- Ninety percent of WSU's graduates in social work pass the Ohio social work licensure examination.
- The School of Professional Psychology offers the only Psy. D. program in the state.

An Energetic Campus Community

Once you are a student at Wright State, you will be able to participate in a variety of activities. There are more than 150 student clubs and organizations, ranging from Greek organizations to performing arts groups and academic clubs.

You also may get involved in one of the many student-run media—WWSU radio station, The Guardian newspaper, Nexus literary journal—or organizations like Student Government or Student Activities Board. Campus recreation provides a variety of popular activities. More than 9,000 students participated in intramurals, fitness programs, outdoor recreation, adapted athletics/recreation and sports clubs last year. Wright State also attracts internationally acclaimed musicians and performers through its Artist Series and at the Nutter Center arena.

The following recreational facilities are available:

- Fitness Center;
- Weight room;
- Indoor, Olympic-size pool;
- Indoor running track;
- Racquetball and squash courts;
- Several gyms;
- Outdoor tennis courts; and
- Outdoor playing fields.

The Raiders have always been extremely active in community events. The players make frequent trips to Childrens' Hospital and take part in "Special Wish Foundation" events as well as other appearances in the community.

A Diversified Campus

It is important in today's rapidly changing society to gain experience and skills in tolerance, understanding, and respect for people from diverse cultural, racial, and ethnic groups. At Wright State, students are encouraged to stretch themselves and take risks in learning about and appreciating differences. Our graduates are prepared to thrive in the complex society in which we live.

Office of Multicultural and Gender Affairs

The Office of Multicultural and Gender Affairs coordinates the activities of three centers:

- The Bolinga Cultural Resources Center promotes cultural pluralism on campus and in the community and provides services to African American students.

The Bolinga Center

Wright State University's Bolinga Cultural Center provides a variety of special programs, activities, and student services that celebrate individual cultural identity while fostering lasting friendships among all groups of people.

The Bolinga Cultural Resources Center opened on January 15, 1971, as a tribute to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The word "Bolinga" means love in Lingala, an African language, and the center's focus is to serve the Dayton area African American community through a series of programs targeted to attract and to serve this segment of the Miami Valley community in a spirit of unity, harmony, and love.

Related to the above is the center's day-to-day functioning as an office which addresses the gamut of academic, cultural, and personal concerns of Wright State's African American students. The center's ongoing campus-based programs consist of a cultural and educational component which includes a Minority Speakers Series, a Community Speakers Series, and an Educational Film/Video Series.

The MCC has been one of the fastest rising conferences in the nation over the last few years because of innovations being made to stay on the cutting edge.

History of the MCC

The Midwestern Collegiate Conference enters its 21st campaign poised to build upon a strong foundation of institutions with a tradition of broad-based programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. The MCC continues to strive to maintain the goals and objectives necessary to achieve national prominence as a top 10 Division I athletics conference.

The MCC has established specific goals for upgrading the league's market and competitive positions, with an eye toward continually enhancing the student-athlete's experience. The conference has a commitment to engage both its staff and member-institution administrators and students to serve on national-level committees. The conference is an affiliation of eight institutions with similar athletics goals that provide stability and major-market exposure.

MCC markets, including five of the country's top 32 television areas, cover over nine million TV households and encompass more than nine percent of the nation's television audience. The member institutions are generally located in major metropolitan areas and benefit from the business, cultural, educational, and entertainment resources available to the university communities.

The MCC is anchored in a solid tradition that began in 1979. Originally formed as a men's sports league, the conference added women's athletics in 1986-87. League members continue to advocate competitive athletics as a valuable educational experience and as an important component in the process of higher education.

The MCC features both public and private institutions committed to fielding broad-based NCAA Division I athletics programs that develop physical fitness, academic development, and moral character in all student-athletes. Among the MCC's established operating principles are efforts to maintain integrity, gender equity, academic excellence, and fiscal responsibility in the athletics enterprise.

Best known for its men's basketball success, the MCC offers a total of 18 different championship sports (nine for men and nine for women). These numbers include the most recent addition of outdoor track and field, which celebrated its inaugural season in 1998. The league enjoys NCAA automatic qualification or play-in access in baseball, men's basketball, women's basketball, men's soccer, women's soccer, softball, and volleyball. The conference and its members have established ambitious goals for these "target priority" programs and continue to pursue national prominence in each.

Talk about opportunities. The Miami Valley offers the best in college and amateur sports as well as an array of cultural events. In fact, Dayton sits within short drives of Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Indianapolis.

Dayton

WISU

The Miami Valley

A Vibrant Community On the Move

The Dayton area is rich in cultural offerings, including the performing arts, historical parks, museums, cultural festivals, and community celebrations. The university is located close to a wide array of restaurants and stores, with the region's largest shopping mall about a mile from the campus. A popular river corridor along the Great Miami River offers 26 scenic miles of walking, jogging, and cycling trails.

The city of Dayton is a city of innovation. From the Wright brothers' first airplane to Charles F. Kettering's first self-starting automobile ignition system to the cash register and automated teller machine, Dayton has a rich heritage of invention and innovation.

Dayton has been the home for other notable Americans as well, including the poet Paul Laurence Dunbar and candy creator Esther Price. Phil Donahue and Erma Bombeck once lived across the street from one another in a Dayton suburb.

Area Notes:

- Dayton is within 250 miles of Chicago, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Lexington, and Louisville.
- The income tax rate for the city of Dayton is 2.25 percent.
- The Dayton area serves seven colleges and universities.
- There are eight major shopping malls in the Dayton area, including The Mall at Fairfield Commons, less than a mile from Wright State.
- Restaurant owner James Ritty devised the first cash register in 1879 to keep his bartenders honest.
- The average annual rainfall in the Dayton area is 34.71 inches.
- The world became a little sweeter when Esther Price founded her candy business in 1929.
- The Wright brothers' first attempts at flight were made from Huffman Prairie near Wright State.
- Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, located next to Wright State, is one of the nation's largest and oldest military installations and was host to the Bosnian peace talks.
- Erma Bombeck and Phil Donahue were once neighbors in the Dayton area.
- Paul Laurence Dunbar and Orville Wright were high school classmates.
- Wright State University woods is prime birdwatching territory. Look for turkey vultures, brown creepers, and tufted titmice.
- Clifton Mill is the oldest operating grindstone in the nation.
- Speedster Barney Oldfield of Dayton was the first person to drive a mile a minute in 1903.
- The road stripper was created in nearby Xenia.
- The largest international gathering of historic aircraft, the Festival of Flight, will occur in Dayton in 2003.
- The National Afro-American Museum and Cultural Center is located in the Dayton area.
- Wright-Patterson Air Force Base houses the United States Air Force Museum, the largest and oldest aviation museum in the world.

Dayton, Ohio: Home of the Wright State Raiders

Today, the Dayton area is home to more than 900,000 people, and what a home it is. From historical sites to high technology research parks, Dayton offers its residents and visitors a wealth of opportunity. The city boasts more green space than any comparably sized city in the nation. Its 35,000 acres of parks and preserves are open for outdoor activities like cycling, walking, or jogging.

While you're out, stop by the U.S Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, the largest of its kind in the world—or take in any of the more than 100 fairs and festivals in the area each year. You can also visit the National Afro-American Museum and Cultural Center, the Boonshoft Museum of Discovery, or the Dayton Art Institute.

Mr. Bob Noss
Athletic Department
Wright State University
Dayton, Ohio 45435

Dear Mr. Noss,

Thank you for lending us the basketball team for the press conference and kickoff for our 3rd Annual Emery Charity Airplane Pull. It was quite a feat to see your 'big' players attempt to get our sponsors XL tee shirts over their muscles! Next year we'll have to order XXL shirts.

As you know, this charity event sponsored the Special Wish of two children, Austin, age 3 and Matthew age 13. The team treated Austin and Matthew with kid gloves and made our Wish children feel they were a part of the WSU team. You and all of Wright State University have reason to be proud of these gentlemen.

We've enclosed the Wish kids favorite photo with the team giving them 'high five'. We hope your team enjoyed the day as much as our children and their families. Our Board of Directors and staff look forward to your continuing support of our Wish kids and our annual Emery Airplane Pull event.

Sincerely yours,

Cissy Seibel

Dr. Goldenberg

Dr. Kim Goldenberg

Kim Goldenberg, M.D., became the fifth president of Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio, on April 9, 1998. A member of Wright State's faculty since 1983, Dr. Goldenberg served as dean of the university's School of Medicine from 1990 to 1998.

Under Dr. Goldenberg's leadership, Wright State achieved national acclaim for its innovative programs in medical education, health care research, and service to the Dayton community.

A native of New York City, Dr. Goldenberg received his M.D. degree from Albany Medical College. He served his internship and internal medicine residency at the Western Reserve Care System in northeastern Ohio. He holds a B.S. degree in engineering science from the State University of New York at Stony Brook and an M.S. degree in bioengineering from the Polytechnic Institute of New York.

Dr. Abrahamowicz

Dr. Dan Abrahamowicz

Dr. Dan Abrahamowicz is Vice President for Student Affairs and Enrollment Services at Wright State University.

A native of Loraine, Ohio, Dr. Abrahamowicz was appointed in 1996 as Vice President. He oversees a variety of university departments including Athletics, Undergraduate Admissions, Campus Recreation, Career Services, Disability Services, Financial Aid, Public Safety, Residence Services, Student Health Services, Student Life, Student Union, and Word Processing.

A graduate of Marion L. Steel High School (Amherst, Ohio), Dr. Abrahamowicz received the B.A. degree magna cum laude from Cleveland State University in 1972, and the M.A. degree from The Ohio State University in 1974. He received the Ph.D. degree with an emphasis in counseling and human services from UT in 1985.

President Goldenberg demonstrates the Raider spirit as he joins other avid fans as a frequent visitor to the Nutter Center to cheer the team to victory.

Dr. Cusack

Dr. Michael J. Cusack

Dr. Michael J. Cusack is Director of Athletics at Wright State University. He was appointed in April of 1982.

A native of Levittown, New York, Cusack earned his Bachelor of Science degree in physical education from Long Island University in 1964. He received his Master of Science degree in physical education from Queens College in 1969 and an Ed.D. degree in 1980 from New York University in administration of physical education and athletics.

Following graduation in 1969, Cusack spent nine years at Queens College as a member of the physical education faculty. He served as head baseball coach, assistant basketball coach and assistant athletic director. His baseball teams had a combined record of 65-27 with teams appearing in postseason tournaments each of the four years he was coach. He was inducted into the Athletic Hall of Honor at Queens in December 1986.

Tony Ortiz
Director of Athletic Training

Entering his 14th season with the Raiders is head trainer Tony Ortiz, who is responsible for the athletic health of over 200 student-athletes at Wright State.

Ortiz, a native of Lorain, Ohio, also acts as an instructor in the area of athletic training and is the program director for all student trainers at WSU. To stay on top of his profession, he continually attends and conducts sports medicine clinics throughout the country.

In addition to receiving many awards in his career, he was named the "Ohio Athletic Trainer of the Year" in 1989. Ortiz is the past president of the Ohio Athletic Trainers Association.

Certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association since 1978, Ortiz holds his master's degree in health education from Bowling Green State University.

Becky Bower
Athletic Trainer

Becky Bower is new to Wright State, but not to the local athletic training scene. She has worked in the Dayton area for the past 12 years as an athletic trainer at Stebbins High school (four years), and at Miami Valley Hospital Sports Medicine Center and Alter High School (the past eight years).

Michelle Sullivan
Assistant Athletic Trainer

Michelle Sullivan came on board in 1997 after graduating from Wright State. She spent four years as a student trainer and works closely with all Raider sports, as well as overseeing the day-to-day activities of the training room.

Strength & Conditioning

The Wright State men's basketball team participates in a closely supervised and scientifically designed, year-round strength and conditioning program designed to improve the overall athleticism of each individual player. The Raider program uses strength training, medicine balls, plyometrics, agility drills, and footwork drills to increase each athletes' strength, power, footwork, agility, jumping ability, and basketball specific conditioning. By participating in this program, the athletes are also much less likely to get injured, and if they are injured, the recovery time is shortened.

A battery of tests are used to measure each player's improvement. Each athlete is tested at the start of the season, prior to the season, after the season and at the end of the school year.

Media Notes

Following the Raiders will be easier than ever this year.

First, search the web for more information than you'll ever need, starting with the Raiders Official Web site www.wright.edu/athletics. Rosters, records, bios, and stats can be found there with a few simple keystrokes.

Next, call the toll-free Raider Hotline 24 hours a day at 1-888-RAIDERS (1-888-724-3377). This free phone call will have latest results of all Raider action.

Sports Information Office:

Wright State University
3640 Colonel Glenn Hwy.
Dayton, OH 45435-0001

Credentials

Season credentials will be issued to local reporters, columnists, etc. prior to the first game. If you have not received a season pass in the past, you must contact the sports information office. Game-by-game passes will be issued by as-needed situations, depending on available space. These passes must be requested at least three days in advance of the game and will be distributed at Entrance #9 off parking Lot #5 in the rear of the Nutter Center. PLEASE NOTE THAT PRESS PARKING AND SEATING IS LIMITED.

Photography

Passes will be handled in a similar fashion as explained above. Still photographers and video photographers are limited to the base line or the concourse level. Team videographers may tape the game from platforms on the concourse level. Still photographers with questions, please call WSU Photographer Scott Kissell at 775-3388.

Telephones

A limited number of phones will be available in the Greg Gahris Memorial Press Room just off the main playing floor. These have been set up for collect or reverse charges only. If you would like to have a phone at court, arrangements need to be made at least a week in advance for a fee. Arrangements for a digital line will have to be made at least a month in advance for a fee.

Radio/TV

Any requests to broadcast WSU games by radio or television must be set up through Bob Noss.

Interviews

Interviews during the week must be set up through the sports information office in advance. Media may come to practice and talk to players before or after practice but may not contact the student-athletes outside pre-arranged times. PLEASE NOTE THAT HOME PHONE NUMBERS WILL NOT BE GIVEN OUT.

Coach Schilling can be contacted Monday through Friday, 1-2:30 p.m. at 775-2835.

Post-Game Interviews

Following a cooling off period, the visiting coach and players (if requested) will briefly address the media in the press room, depending upon radio obligations. This will be followed by Wright State players and Ed Schilling. For media needing an immediate quote from Coach Schilling, he will be doing a post-game radio show which is broadcast throughout the arena.
